

Telewire Teams Up With MG Security Systems to Provide Small to Mid-Size Businesses With State-Of-The-Art Digital Video Surveillance Systems

Customized CCTV and DVR Design Differentiates Technology Offering

SALISBURY, MD – March 31, 2008 - Telewire, a leader in business communications, announced today that it has teamed up with MG Security Systems, a supplier of digital video recording (DVR) and closed circuit television (CCTV) equipment, to provide small to mid-size businesses with state-of-the-art digital video surveillance systems. The partnership enables the region's companies to benefit from the customization of CCTV and DVR design from MG Security Systems unparalleled offering.

"Over the last few years, the use of CCTV and DVR technology, particularly IP-based systems, has grown to unprecedented levels. Companies want to protect their most important assets and this technology gives them the power to do just that. Recent technological leaps in digital imaging, and the sudden ubiquity of the Internet has made it possible to have real-time, easy to use—and legally admissible—surveillance systems for multiple sites for a very moderate cost," said Bryan Murfree, president of Telewire.

MG Security Systems is a quality and service based company that designs and installs both closed circuit DVR and IP based video surveillance systems including point of sale (POS) interfaces. MG Security Systems thoroughly tests every product shipped from their factory to ensure proper operation. The company then provides professional support with immediate response for their products. Each and every product is custom designed and manufactured to meet their customers' individual specifications.

"Video surveillance technology is one of the most valuable loss prevention, safety, security and management tools available today. Companies utilize surveillance systems to monitor shoplifters and dishonest employees, compile recorded evidence against bogus accident claims, and monitor merchandising displays in stores that may be hundreds of miles away. Manufacturers, governments, hospitals, universities and financial institutions use surveillance systems to identify visitors and employees, monitor hazardous work areas, thwart theft and ensure the security of their premises and parking facilities. We have seen phenomenal increases in demand for this technology from our customers and as a result we determined it was in their best interests to partner with MG Security Systems, a company that has the capacity to meet all of their needs," added Mr. Murfree.

"We're thrilled about the opportunity to provide Telewire's customers with our product and service offering," stated Ed Michelson, co-founder of MG Security Systems. "Our approach is very different than our competition. At MG Security Systems, we customize every solution and then back it by an exceptional level of support. Our mission is customer centric and we have one primary goal in mind – complete protection of our customers' most important assets."
